

OWNING A VETERAN-OWNED SMALL BUSINESS

A growing number of transitioning veterans choose to forge their own path and become entrepreneurs after leaving the Armed Forces. Starting a business offers new opportunities and challenges. Like the military profession, business ownership requires training, planning, and education.

VETERANS BUSINESS BOOTCAMP

Veterans Business Bootcamp is a program instituted by the University of Mary Washington Center for Economic Development and the Stafford County Economic Development and Tourism Office to provide an overview of business ownership to service members. The program is sponsored by the Stafford County Economic Development Authority. The course is open to Veterans of all eras, service members (including members of the National Guard and Reserves) and their spouses.

The curriculum provides assistance to those interested in exploring business ownership by leading them through the key steps to developing the business model, providing a great customer experience, establishing the business, and financing a start-up business.

Prepare to transition out of the service. Attend Veterans Business Bootcamp workshop to determine whether entrepreneurship is a good option.

Sign up for Veterans Business Bootcamp, an entrepreneurship training program for veterans and their spouses. Breakfast refreshments will be provided.
